A woman has claimed that she met aliens from “another dimension” went for a ride in their spaceship - and had her eggs stolen.

Author Sherry Wilde was said to have spent most of her lifetime communicating with aliens. In a talk given in 2015, which recently resurfaced on YouTube, she explained how she first saw four of them when her car stalled and the beings were standing in the middle of a road. She claimed that her car rolled to a stop, right where they were and the next thing she knew it was two hours later and she was at her girlfriend's home. And having been on a mission to figure out what happened, she went and sought help from a hypnotist 20 years later – and what she remembered shocked her at the age of 17.

Sherry Wilde made some bold claims about meeting aliens

She said: "When the car rolled to a stop at his feet, I looked through the wind shield and my eyes kept trying to change what I was seeing because he wasn't human and my mind couldn't accept that. He had green eyes, a mouth that didn't open, a tight fitting cap on his head – I put my head down and I was shaking and I thought I was going to die from it.

"He called my name and said 'Sherry, we've been waiting for you'. He told me to get out of the car . . . there were two guys behind with wands who came over and grabbed hold of me. This grey claw-like arm grabbed my forearm and pulled me out of the car. As soon as they touched me I stopped shaking and was very car.

"The main guy looked familiar . . . and said 'there's work to be done' – they were from another dimension."

Sherry was then taken to a field where she saw their spaceship and claimed that it was a little "silver scout ship, around 20ft in diameter". Despite wanting to stand there and look at it due to her fascination, Sherry initially didn't want to go into it because she "knew" what might happen.

The leader, who she called Da, went into the ship and she was told to follow, but resisted. Eventually, she went in and recalls it being "cold," and far bigger on the outside than the inside. She said: "I walked into it and there was a room with windows and a curve. There was a very narrow slab table, and there was also a hallways with other doors and rooms."

She then claims she was undressed and laid onto the table, while a female alien held her head. The aliens took DNA samples, but "nothing hurt very much", as well as the aliens promising to take care of a "weakness" she had in her legs.

Shockingly, the aliens then tried to "extract some of your eggs". She said: "They extracted them and I watched the fluid go through a tubing. When they took the sample everyone stopped what they were doing and there was a high level of excitement.

"I got dressed and they asked me some questions, the first of which was to ask if I was happy."

Eventually, they let her off the ship and she said she wanted to go back on it – but instead, they wiped her memory and left her clueless for more than 20 years.
